DETAILED ACTION

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after allowance or after an Office action under Ex Parte Quayle, 25 USPQ 74, 453 O.G. 213 (Comm'r Pat. 1935). Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, prosecution in this application has been reopened pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 1/08/09 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sofer ('546) in view of JP (2001010034A IDS cited reference).

Sofer discloses a hair device (figs. 1-3) comprising a container (16, fig. 3) having a first side (14), a second side (at 12), and an additive displacing member (12) being provided in the vicinity of the second side, the first side being covered by a base part (30) having a surface on which hair contacting elements (18a) and additive outlets (20) being provided, the surface having a depression (see fig. 2 at 30) that surround the addictive outlets, the base part being in its entirely detachably connected to the container (threaded portion at 30, see fig. 3), the depression inherently collects residual addictive and the container being in its entirely detachably connected to the hair device (the container being in a cartridge form). Sofer fails to show the base part having a concave surface. JP '034 discloses a hair applicator comprising a plurality of hair contacting elements (10) having a concave base part (7). It would have been obvious to one having an ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the base of Sofer with the concave surface as taught by JP '034 for the intended use purpose.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sofer in view of JP '034.

Sofer in view of JP '034 discloses the essential claimed invention as discussed above except for an electrical actuator means for forcing the additive displacing member toward the base for expelling the additive. However, it is known in the art to include an electrical actuator means as cited in fig. 1 of Sofer; therefore, it would have been obvious to one having an ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the electrical actuator means into the device of Sofer in view of JP '034 in order to enhance the dispensing of the additive purpose. In regard to claim 5, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to have the hair contacting elements being brush hairs, since applicant has not disclosed that any type of hair contacting elements solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose.
